INTRACOASTAL CONDO DESIGNED FOR ELEGANCE & WARMTH

INTERIOR DECORATING Goode Interiors, Inc.
DESIGNER Sherri Goode, Plantation, FL
954.701.6149
PHOTOGRAPHY Abel Carlo 954.554.5821

The client's dream was to have a home with a modern, but casual/comfortable feel! This condo has an open floor plan that flows from one room to another. Each room portrayed a warm and inviting feel. The goal was created by using multiple textures and earth tone colors. Sherri Goode's client had one request and that was to make his home realistic, in the sense that a bachelor lives there. Keeping within the guidelines, warmth and comfort was accomplished by using the monochromatic hues with a splash of color.

The formal living room exuded elegance, once again, keeping within the guide lines requested. Lighting was a serious challenge in this apartment. Concrete ceilings were throughout and junction boxes were not centered for proper placement. Therefore, quick creativity needed to be present to accomplish the goal. The contemporary crystal fixture was flanked at an angle carefully dangling the droplet pieces of glass that centered over the cocktail table. This set the stage! The pinch-pleat sheer window treatments when drawn closed still allowed the beautiful view to shine through. The sofa seating by John Charles created the formal comfort that the client desired. The cantilevered marble cocktail table peaked interest in the space and was one of the focal points of the room. The splash of color came from the original abstract art work.

The dining room (previous page, behind the formal living room), once again, was very challenging. The junction box in the concrete ceiling was off centered making it difficult to find placement for the dining room table and chairs. Quick decision making needed to take place. Dry wall beams (5) were constructed with faux wood grained in a plaster technique to give the look of wood beams. Now a centerline was established to give proper placement for the contemporary, frosted glass chandelier. Once again, creating drama and importance came from the design and placement of the lighting.

The foyer (upper right) established the style and personality of the homeowner. Accenting the walls as a backdrop was paramount and key to create the theme. The architecture was accentuated by glazing, plastering and antiquing the walls. The foyer niche's was deepened with a stain to accentuate the console and art work. Mocha colored hues in a faux finish suede technique wrapped the walls throughout the main living areas.

The warmth and comfort in the family room provided an atmosphere in which to entertain and relax. The sofa sectional was covered in a chocolate-color leather giving a mancave, bachelor-type feel. Skyline window treatments were installed giving function and esthetics all at the same time. The long shag two-toned rug is contemporary in nature and is designed with 100 percent wool. To mix it up and create an eclectic feel, Sherri Goode likes to combine contemporary art and accessories.

The kitchen (above) had a dual view (north and south) throughout. The chocolate-colored velvet Harrison and Gil bar stools filled in the space to create a casual eating area. The antique plaster on the wall and below the bar acted as a durable backdrop for entertaining.

The master suite is minimal in nature and accented with the metal art work over the hand painted metallic plaster wall. This accent wall created the drama in the room. Once again, lighting is key when ceiling heights are 9'2". Each fixture needs to be functional and decorative in nature to give a wow factor appeal. Above the metallic plaster wall, a hand painted wood plaster finish created the look of an authentic wood beam.

The master bathroom was designed to create a spa-like feel. White Venetian plaster was hand painted on the walls and ceiling to create a clean look. The dark walnut double vanity contrasted against the white marble and Venetian plaster walls. The white vessel sinks continued the flow of a spa feel.

The outdoor balcony was as important as the interior. Creating a cozy spot to relax was a must to view the magnificent intracoastal waterway. The outdoor furniture in the espresso finish continued the continuity of the interiors.

“A TRUE
BACHELOR'S COVE
WITH TREMENDOUS
"WOW" FACTOR,” Goode says.

The apartment is a dream come true for her client. A true bachelor's cove with tremendous "WOW" factor. The common theme used throughout the interior was monochromatic hues which complimented the elegance of the open floor plan and architecture. The attention to detail yielded a space that emits warmth and luxury that the client requested. The client can be described as a down-to-earth person, warm and unpretentious in nature. A true class act!
